

Irish lasses loving Woodstock

Springboard, an exchange placement NGO, has organised that Lorna Simmonson from Dublin and Bronagh Gregg from Belfast spend a few weeks in Woodstock to assist with the Woodstock Memory Project. The two Irish ladies have been fallen in love with this city and its people".

During their stint in Woodstock they have been based at the library where most of the interviews have taken place.

Mughammad Dollie at the Library and Irvine Clement of Van

Lorna Simmonson And Bronagh Gregg
offering their assistance to the Woodstock Memory
Project

interviewing some of the senior citizens of the suburb over the last two weeks and are building a picture of what Woodstock was like in the good old days.

"I have learned so much about Woodstock and I'll be returning to Ireland with so much knowledge about South Africa", says Lorna.

Lorna and Bronagh have been assisting Josette Cole and Basil Braaf with this wonderful project.

"The legacies of Woodstock are thus far untold and I feel extremely privileged to be involved in attempting to knit together the past with the present and, of course, the future",

Kalker Photographers together with Basil Braaf have played a most valuable role in introducing the two ladies to this historic suburb.

The two are currently in the process of compiling the findings of the interviews and will be returning to their home country during mid November.

The Woodstock Whisperer hopes to gain access to the information with the view of sharing it with our readers.

